Rhodes, North Eastern Cape Highlands

Regular COUNTRY LIFE contributor and renowned flyfisherman, Peter Brigg

The tiny village of Rhodes lies in a remote corner of the North Eastern Cape Highlands. Tucked away between the folds of the Earth in the most southerly region of the Drakensberg Mountain range, this picturesque Victorian-era village was granted National Monument status in 1997.

Now preserved for posterity, quiet and beautiful, it exudes a timeless feel and ambiance with its character streetscape and period architecture.

If you are a fly fisher a visit to Rhodes is a must with its hundreds of kilometres of fishable rivers and still waters in spectacular surrounds.

But also for the many other activities – hiking, bird watching, skiing, trail running, mountain biking, or to simply relax and soak up the ambiance of the place and enjoy the hospitality of the local community.

To attend one of the local annual events like the Fly Fishing Festival or the Stoepsit Fees, visit the local tourism website (www.rhodesinfo.co.za)

COUNTRY LIFE RECOMMENDS:

Take a scenic trip to Carlislehoek Waterfall or an hours drive to the breath-taking Addo Elephant National Park.
